

PROPOSE REVISION OF CITY BUILDING LAWS IN MEASURE

Ordinance Would Affect Overhanging Signs—Propose Two Appropriations.

Revision of those sections of the city's building laws pertaining to the maintenance of overhanging signs, appropriations of $7,500 and $5,000 respectively to the police and health departments were provided for in proposed ordinance introduced before the common council, meeting in regular session last night.

Passed on this reading and added to the governing laws, the ordinance making it a misdemeanor to distribute circulars or other advertising matter without first securing permits from the chief of police. That portion of the bill between Main st. and Lafayette blvd., extending from Washington to Colfax ave., was named N. Court st., in a second ordinance passed.

"Nine of the 10 members were present, the one absentee being Councilman George E. H. who is on a trip to California in the company of his "honey moon." In the vote on the circular distributing ordinance, political lines were drawn, the two democratic councilmen composing the minority.

Approve Control.

Included in the business to come before the meeting was a resolution, unanimously carried, approving a contract entered into between Will H. Burke as principal and the Aetna Casualty and Surety Co., Hartford, Ct., as surety, with the school city for the construction of the John F. Suter school in River Park.

The proposed measure affecting the recently enacted building code deals with the character, size and design of signs applicable to streets, alleys and sidewalks, hanging or suspended from buildings adjacent to such thoroughfares. The introduction of the measure marked the initial attempt at revision of the new building laws, location of residence garages with respect to lot lines, and the newly erected steam furnace and playground new work under construction being included among the amendments tentatively recommended by the building department.

The $7,500 appropriation measure indicated a shortage was eminent in the administration of the police department, brought about, it was understood, by purchase of new motor equipment, demanded because of the depreciated condition and necessity for additional cars, motorcycles and motorboat. The proposed measure, however, in the case of the others went over for consideration by the committee of the whole, sought this amount from the general fund for the miscellaneous fund of the department.

The amount sought by the health department to defray the cost of expense of maintaining the local venereal clinic.

Spectacular Film Is Presented at Orpheum Theater

"Foolish Wives" Is Superlative in Gorgeous Settings—Acting Dramatic.

Spectacular in the lavishness of its settings and dramatic throughout, "Foolish Wives," the Universal Jewel production playing at the Orpheum theater this week is thought to eclipse any "movie" of its kind ever attempted.

Gorgeous glimpses of the life at Monte Carlo, beautiful women beautifully groomed, and really artistic scenic effects go to make "Foolish Wives" one of the most talked of plays of the year. Even Von Stroheim, author and director, fits into the picture, "Foolish Wives," living up to his reputation as a man you love to hate. The details of his cruelty are carefully, even gruesomely worked out, adding much to the finished play.

An unusually dramatic bit of acting done by the maid servant, one of the women falling into the power of this "master of women" and excellent work is contributed by other members of the cast.

The lesson, suggested in the title, is effectively portrayed.

WARREN RELEASED FROM COUNTY JAIL

Victim of Lane's "Bar Wreckers" Completes Sentence—Again Before Court.

Roy Warren, whose "soft drink" establishment at 810 N. Hill st. in February was the scene of one of Chief Lane's first bar wrecking enterprises, which later resulted in Tommy Ward's LaSalle av. emporium resulting in a revocation of a suspended jail sentence, was yesterday released from the county jail, having completed a 30-day sentence.

The court had taken under advisement the judgment on the second offense until Warren had finished out his term. Hardly had he obtained the out-of-doors and freedom, Warren presented himself before City Judge DeCumb to hear what yet might be in store for him.

A fine of $100 and costs and six months at the Indiana state penitentiary, the maximum jail sentence, both fine and penal sentence suspended, found the court, which declined his intention of holding to such sentence against the honor of the defendant brought before him a second time. For a third offense, Warren would be required to take double the "dose" previously meted out to him.

FORMER SECRETARY OF LOCAL C. OF C. TO AID IN RELIEF

Harold Whelan, Well Known Here, Sails for Armenia with Near East Workers.

Among the newly appointed workers of the Near East Relief who sailed on the steamer "Armenia" last night from New York this week was Harold V. Whelan, formerly a secretary of the South Bend Chamber of Commerce.

Whelan, a public accountant of considerable experience, and a graduate of Notre Dame University, was appointed for service in the Transcaucasian Republics of Armenia and Georgia, where suffering from famine and disease is intense. Because of the vast need the Near East Relief has found it necessary to apply a policy for the most direct economy and Whelan is being added to a force of auditors and accountants maintained overseas for the purpose of keeping expenses down to the minimum with efficient operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank reached this city yesterday afternoon on a return trip to his Los Angeles home from New York city for a brief visit with his daughter, Miss Louise Frank, a student at St. Mary's academy. They expect to stay in this city for a few days to renew old acquaintances.

Mr. Frank left this city about two years ago to take over the management of the Ambassador and Alexander hotels in Los Angeles, and was in New York on his present trip on business in connection with his hotel interests.

Local Expansion Plan.

"The people of South Bend are certainly fortunate," Mr. Frank stated last night, "to be experiencing such a strong business and financial condition. Practically every place visited in the East showed marked signs of an existing depression, and although the people there speak optimistically, there are no signs of an immediate improvement in conditions in that part of the country at least. Don't think I am inclined to be pessimistic, but I am telling you of conditions as I saw them."

"South Bend was never in such good condition as at the present time and there is no doubt in my mind about the present expansion program of St. Paul Company."

Two other relief workers were in the same party with Whelan. They were Miss Miriam Wood, of Revere, Mass., and Miss Susan J. Shedd, of Philadelphia, Miss Wood probably assigned to Transcaucasia, Miss Shedd, who is the daughter and grand daughter of American missionaries to Persia, is on her way to that country, where she will serve in the Near East Relief orphanage in Hamadan.

Oliver Players Offer "39 East" As New Vehicle

Comedy Drama Holds Interest Throughout by Amusing and Serious Situations.

The first performance of "39 East," a comedy-drama in three acts, was presented Monday evening by the Oliver Players.

The plot, which is slight, revolves around a small town girl, a daughter of a minister, who comes to New York for a musical career. Her trials and tribulations at "39 East," a sedate boarding house, brings to the audience, tense situations, a flash of emotion which holds attention and interest from the very beginning.

The scenes of the first and third act are laid in the boarding house, while the second, in Central park, features a realistic thunder storm with a great deal of lightning striking a tree and toppling it over.

The boarding house characters are of the regular type and the conversations and opinions of the "world-beats-and-has-beens" form not a small part of the charm of the play. The story itself is not one of great growth, plot construction—rather through situations. The heroine, having attracted the attention and admiration of a rich man, becomes a part of the gossip of each and every one of her associates. Having failed to gain a position in the "clubs," she is the following necessity becomes a chorus girl. Between the rich young man and the manager, the girl passes through a succession of incidents matching her innocence against masculine advantage.

Who would guess the theatrical manager who was a boomer has a change of heart in regard to the girl inspired by her faith in a great career for herself. And the simple, steadfast love of the rich young man gives heart interest to the play. The last between her faith in her own heart in the other furnishes the climax of the play. There are many amusing and serious situations which make it quite worth while to those who care for the lighter thing in drama.

Abe Frank Spends Busy Day in City At 'Handshaking'

Former Oliver Hotel Manager Visits City Enroute to Los Angeles Home.

If handshaking breeds disease, as a noted physician recently stated, Abe Frank, former manager of the Oliver hotel, should be dead by morning. A stranger in the city, yesterday afternoon and night, must have thought, "Prest! Harding or Ring! Lawler was in our midst, judging by the throngs rushing in and out of the Oliver in search of the former local host."

Abe recognized them all, calling them by their first names and inquiring about the others. He was the family. Rushing upstairs whenever he happened to spy an old friend and down again when an old friend was in sight was Abe's chief pastime during the afternoon and night; but he greeted them all with a smile and a handshake that showed his enjoyment came from the heart.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank reached this city yesterday afternoon on a return trip to his Los Angeles home from New York city for a brief visit with his daughter, Miss Louise Frank, a student at St. Mary's academy. They expect to stay in this city for a few days to renew old acquaintances.

HOSINSKI MAY HAND DOWN VERDICT TODAY

The inability to have all the witnesses sign their names to their statements given at the hearing held by Justice Al Hosinski to determine the causes which led up to the fatal shooting, May 6, of Edmund Wisniewski, prevented the justice from making known his verdict last night.

But three more signatures are needed before the verdict will be given. One of them is County Morgue Officer Meyers, who with Officer Schriker is said to have fired at the fleeing man. Officer Schriker appeared at Hosinski's office last night to affix his signature to his statement.

The remaining three witnesses are expected to appear at Hosinski's office some time this morning to sign the statements given by them at the hearing. Hosinski will give his verdict as soon as the three signatures are secured.

LITTLE CHANGE IN TAX APPRAISMENTS

Tax Board Completes First Session—Local Company Increased $500,000.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 22.—Tax appraisements made against corporations by the state tax board will be practically unchanged from a year ago when the total was $22,565,222 according to the figures, who Monday completed their first session for fixing these tax values. Numerous revisions, causing increases and decreases, will result from the board's decisions, but it was estimated that the total figure will be substantially that of a year ago.

MARKET SUMMARY

NEW YORK, May 22.—Stocks in both industrial and railroad groups on the New York stock exchange today moved forward aggressively for most of the session today.

After fluctuating for more than a month in a narrow range, it was not accidental that both the industrial and railroad averages broke into the open market today.

Confident buying went ahead all day on the strength of the fact that this development unquestionably helped the resumption of the major upward swing.

Strength in the rail stocks reflected continued report of gains of loadings of traffic other than coal. Even in one or two coal mining districts shipments are making some increase. Another bullish factor was the report from last week's meetings over the White House dinner of Saturday night. It now appears that President Harding has taken up the matter of freight rate reduction in a friendly and reasonable spirit, seeking to persuade, rather than to deliver an ultimatum. Wall st. has long accepted the belief of railroad executives that freight rates in due time must come down. So far there appears to have been nothing in the White House proceeding suggesting that the reduction process will be forced ahead of a commensurate reduction in operating expenses.
